

POLITICAL MATTERS.

Interesting Reading About the Kentucky Campaign.

To listen to the republican speakers, one would think the republican party in Kentucky had originated the common school system, and were the only people that could be trusted to bring it to perfection. As every friend of education in the State, there is no law on the Statute book in regard to education that was not put there by Democratic Legislators and while Kentucky has not made the advancement in this respect that it should have, great progress is being made, and with the election of Governor McCreary, further improvement is sure to follow. The fact that we have better teachers who are paid better salaries, and that there are more schools in Kentucky than ever before, is all due to the re-organization of the public school system under the school board. This act was passed in 1904 by a Democratic Legislature, and was drawn by Mr. J. J. Sullivan, who is Governor McCreary's close personal friend, a member of his campaign committee. The Democratic party can be trusted to build upon this admirable foundation, a noble superstructure that will place Kentucky, where it belongs among the greatest educational States in the Union.

The best that O'Rear can do is to promise that if a Democratic Legislature does not follow his instructions, he will keep them in session at an expense of over $1000. a day. Governor McCreary will be able to enact into law every plank in his platform, because his party will be in control of both houses and will not dare to violate the promises so sacredly made.

When you were looking over your tax polls for this year, don't get that the increase is due to republican administration at Frankfort, which has received O'Rear's hearty endorsement. The increase in the value of farm lands for assessment purposes in the last two years alone, has been over ninety-two million dollars. When Judge O'Rear was asked if he approved what the State Board of Equalization had done in placing this burden upon the shoulders of the farmers, he answered that they had done their duty under the law, and he endorsed their acts.

Senator Bradley has given Lillard, the bolting Democrat who help elect him, a certificate of character, besides providing him with a $1200 office for four years. At Danville, where Lillard was indicted forty-five times by the grand jury for selling liquor in local-option territory, they do not share Bradley's high estimate. The only recent tribute paid Lillard in that community, was to hang him in effigy.

Governor Willson has spent three hundred days out of the State during his term of office. all the sive from the very beginning. Governor McCreary will end this contest in full mental and bodily vigor, and will give the State such a progressive administration that the Democracy will not be out of power again in twenty years.

On a Rampage.

The further Judge O'Rear goes the worse he gets. He has put his foot into his mouth so often during the campaign that the wonder is he has any teeth left. His latest break was in a speech at Muncieville where he stated that Percy Haley had been brought before a grand jury, tried and convicted of publishing a libel on Noel Gaines. No such thing ever occurred, and the Lexington Leader, Louisville Herald and other republican papers are busy making corrections to keep from being sued for libel. Judge O'Rear, with sure defeat staring him in the face, has gone wild and newspapers that report his speeches are taking a big chance.

There is no doubt that Ex-Senator Jack Oliver, who is the Republican Candidate for Secretary of State, feels just as bitter as Judge O'Rear does on the subject of railroads. He is a great friend of the Constitution—sleeps with it under his pillow at night, and grieves when its provisions are neglected by the Legislature. In the meantime, Senator Jack blithely travels all over the State on railroad passes, and as he has made many trips with Judge O'Rear, that distinguished jurist must have personal information on the subject. Why does not Judge O'Rear begin his reforms at home, and convince the members of his own family, and his fellow candidates, that they should not engage in the discreditable practice of riding on railroad passes?

The burden of Judge O'Rear's song continues to be the "corrupt lobby." Early in the campaign, he promised to single these men out, and name them so that the voters would know who had been bribing Legislators all these years. So far, however, he has not given a single name, nor has he related a single incident by which they could be identified. Is it possible that when he went over the list, he found the lobby made up principally of the men who are alleged to have spent sixty-five thousand dollars to elect Bradley to the United States Senate, and that this is the cause of his silence?

Judge J. A. Sullivan, of Richmond is doing valiant work for the Democracy on the stump. He is the author of the Sullivan school law which has given such impetus to education all over the State. Judge Sullivan is one of Governor McCreary's closest personal friends, and it is a labor of love for him to canvass the State in the interest of his neighbor and friend.

Judge O'Rear whispers to the farmers that he knows a way to get them twelve cents for their tobacco, and he has known the secret for several years. He has not told them why he did not take Governor Willson and Attorney General Breathitt into his confidence, and render this inestimable service to the tobacco growers. It would have put millions of dollars into the pockets of this oppressed class of our citizens, and it would have been a great campaign card for O'Rear. A single performance of that kind would be worth a ten acre lot full of the promises that he is now making, if they will only elect him Governor.

One of the very first bills to be offered in the Legislature will be a direct primary bill. Several measures have already been prepared by Democratic Senators and Representatives, and the best of them will be chosen and enacted into law. Judge O'Rear can promise a primary law, but the Democrats have the votes, and they will give the people of the State what they want and the best that Judge O'Rear can do will be to sit on the Court of Appeals bench and pass on its legality.

There is no getting around the fact that nineteen of the thirty-eight members that compose the Senate are Democrats, and that that body will be controlled by the Democrats for the next two years. No bill can become a law without their votes, and every one of these holdover Senators, and those to be chosen, are pledged to carry out the reforms promised by the Democratic platform. People who want the State to go forward, will support the Democratic ticket, because they can carry on their promises, whereas the Republicans will have no opportunity to do any one of the many things they are advocating.

LANCLEY'S BLUFF CALLED.

Chairman Vansant invites Him to Look at the Books.

Rufus H. Vansant, chairman of the Democratic State Campaign Committee, in a statement issued late last night, accepted the challenge of John W. Langley, chairman of the Republican State Campaign Committee, to throw the light of publicity on all books and records of contributions and expenditures before the campaign. In his letter of acceptance Chairman Vansant says that the Democratic committee has not accepted any contribution from either the whisky or tobacco trust to help finance the campaign in behalf of Senator James B. McCreary and the other Democratic candidates, and that no effort has been made to purchase any newspaper in Kentucky to help conduct the fight in behalf of the party.

He says that the service of expert accountants suggested by Mr. Langley will be unnecessary, and invites Mr. Langley himself to come to the Democratic headquarters and look over the books.

His statement in full is as follows:

"Mr. John W. Langley, chairman of the Republican Campaign Committee, has addressed a card to the people of Kentucky in which he challenges the chairman of the Democratic State Campaign Committee to submit all books, papers and records to two expert, disinterested public accountants, who shall examine all the receipts and expenditures of the campaign fund and that said accountants shall certify the names of each contributor and the amount secured by them, and further, that the chairman of each Campaign Committee, Republican and Democratic, shall swear to the correctness of the records furnished them.

"I accept Mr. Langley's challenge and invitation. It will not be necessary for him or me to select an expert accountant to perform the service suggested. I hereby invite him to personally come to the Democratic headquarters, and pledge myself that all books records and papers showing contributions made to the campaign fund and disbursements of the same, shall be placed at his disposal. He can take as much time for the investigation as he can spare from his exacting duties, and when he completes the work he can report to the public the result of his investigation, and I will not require him to swear to its correctness.

"So far as contributions made to the Republican campaign fund are concerned, I have no interest in them. I do not care to select an expert accountant to go over Mr. Langley's books, nor do I wish to examine them myself, nor will I make any personal or other inquiry into the financial conduct of his campaign. I do not care if his campaign fund is $100,000 or five times that amount. No sums that he can raise from contributions of Federal officeholders, or through the importunities of his friends, McCulloch, president of the Kentucky Distillers' Association, can defeat Gov. McCreary, and the Democratic ticket, for it is going to be elected by the votes of unpurchasable citizens, and this does not include the 70,000 votes which his candidate, Judge O'Rear, says are for sale in old Kentucky.

"I want to say for the further enlightenment of Mr. Langley that neither myself, nor any member of the Campaign Committee, nor any candidate for office, nor any other person, for himself, or in our behalf, has not accepted, and none will accept one dollar from the Whisky Trust, the Tobacco Trust, or any other corporation or interest.

"I will add further, that we have not spent a dollar for the purchase of any newspaper, either Republican or Democratic, to espouse our cause.

"I want to say to the people of Kentucky that I have endeavored to conduct a clean, honorable fight, to the end that Democracy might succeed, and the State be redeemed from Republican misrule. I have been fair to every candidate; have made no attack upon private character; have countenanced no personal abuse, and have appealed only to the intelligence and conscience of the voters. I have no apologies to offer for my course. I have done my duty by the people and the party and the white light of investigation has no terrors for me.

R. H. VANSANT,
Chairman."

While Judge O'Rear is harping on the evils of riding on railroad passes, his family continues to ride on them, and Judge O'Rear dares not deny that this is true. If you will ask certain railroads to furnish copies of the passes issued to his family during his term as Judge of the Court of Appeals, the response will prove his insincerity, and startle the people of the State, some of whom believe that he means what he says.

Mr. Green is an ideal man for Clerk of the Court of Appeals. His long service in that office has made him proficient in that important work. The people of the State have all found Bob Green courteous and accommodating, and irrespective of party they wish him well. Mr. Green is not a public speaker, but he is doing splendid work for the ticket among his wide acquaintance, and his personal popularity will bring many votes to the cause.

"The corrupt lobby" which O'Rear assails, is the identical lobby that secured four bolting Democrats to vote for W. O. Bradley and elect him to the United States Senate. The beneficiary of this fraud upon the people is morally as guilty as the corruptionists that perpetrated it, and yet, Judge O'Rear proclaims Bradley the "greatest living Kentuckian," and assures the Temperance people whose bitter enemy Bradley has always been, that his title as Senator is "without flaw or stain."

Everywhere there are women who bear witness to the wonder-working, curing-power of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—which saves the suffering sex from pain, and successfully grapples with woman's weaknesses and stubborn ills.

As a sample of the extreme and utterly false statements being handed out to the voters by Republican newspapers in this campaign we quote the following paragraph from the Pikeville Herald:

"The Democratic party stands indicted for having tried twice to destroy the good old flag; for the indescribable horrors of Andersonville and Libby prisons, where half a million soldiers died of starvation, their vitals eaten out by vermin, and to whom it have been merciful to have been torn limb from limb."

Let's analyze this statement just to see how big a lie it is. In the first place the Democratic party was not in charge of these prisons. If the Herald will ask any school child it will learn that the war was between the North and South—the Federals and Confederates. Also, incidentally, that there was no Republican party at that time, and that the "good old flag" doesn't belong to the Republican party today, either.

Now, as to the half million soldiers starved to death in those two prisons. A brief calculation shows that if those prisons had been kept packed with soldiers from 1861 to the present day, a period of 50 years, hauling the dead ones out and replacing them with live ones as fast as the deaths occurred, the half-million mark would not yet have been reached. This is allowing 40 days for each man to live, and giving the vermin no time to do the horrible work described. Dr. Tanner fasted forty days and lived more than twenty years afterward. If we allow 50 days for starvation, the two prisons will not have completed that half-million job for 20 years yet. Evidently, the Herald doesn't yet know the war is over.

When the Republicans say complimentary things about the school laws of Kentucky and the high salaries paid to teachers they are complimenting the Democratic party, because every law that makes this condition was passed by a Democratic Legislature. The Republican officials not only have no part in the honor, but they have not given the teachers as good treatment as they are entitled to under these laws. The money due them last February was not paid until June, notwithstanding the fact that the school money is a fund set apart solely and sacredly for this purpose. It is a violation of the law to use the school fund for other purposes. Yet they used the money to pay salaries of State officers and compelled the teachers to wait until June. Also, the Republican administration has failed to pay the teachers promptly oftener than it has paid them on the days fixed by law. The checks do not reach the Superintendents on time very often, except just before a State election. Under Democratic administrations the teachers are always paid on time.

O'Rear is drawing his large salary as Judge of the Court of Appeals and giving the State absolutely nothing in return. He has not done a day's work for the State since the adjournment of the spring term of the Appellate Court. Does that look like he would make an unselfish, non-grafting Governor? Talk about sincerity and purity and patriotism! If that isn't enough to brand him as possessing neither we should like to know how much proof any voter would ask. It's a job with a good salary that O'Rear is after—nothing else. He already has such a job and he is selfish and grasping enough to hold onto it till he is sure he has a better one, or knows he has lost out in the attempt. Is he afraid he can't make a living if he gives up the Appellate Court salary and falls to win for Governor? It would be cheaper for the people of Kentucky to support him by passing the hat than by giving him the salary and opportunities of the Governor's office.

The Mt. Sterling Advocate says: "Judge O'Rear, the announced foe of corruption and graft, the apostle of purity and the sponsor for honesty, especially in officials, admits he has not rendered any service as a Judge of the Court of Appeals since about March 1st, last, and will not do so until after the election, a period of more than eight months, yet he continues to receive his monthly salary checks, drawn on the State Treasury, in the face of a plain law to the contrary, with which he, as a capable lawyer, is familiar."

Governor McCreary is closing the most remarkable campaign in his long public career. He has not given his Republican opponent a moment's rest, but has mercilessly arraigned him and his party until they have been on the defensive from the very beginning. Governor McCreary will end his contest in full mental and bodily vigor, and will give the State such a progressive administration that the Democracy will not be out of power again in twenty years.

Dr. J. H. Wade, candidate for the Legislature, is as fine a gentleman as you can find anywhere—sober, discreet, honest, and he can be depended upon to do the right thing at all times and upon all questions. He did not seek the nomination. It sought him and he reluctantly consented to make the race.

If there is a vacancy in the United States Senate, the Governor will fill it. Do you want a friend of the people to be chosen, or a servant to the trusts? A vote for O'Rear means a vote for a high tariff, and for the re-election of Taft.

Urey Woodson, of the Owensboro Messenger, yesterday wired Chairman Langley, of the Republican State Campaign Committee, challenging him to get J. W. McCulloch, wealthy distiller, to join with him in a denial that Mr. McCulloch had made a contribution to the Republican campaign fund.

"The Insurgents say, 'Steal by the protective tariff, but do it moderately,' the Stand-patters say, 'take it all.' Democracy raises the commandment which came from Sinai, 'Thou shalt not steal.'"

Up at Pikeville the O'Rear-Langley show graphophone was out of commission, made useless, so the manager explained "by the kick of a Democratic mule." Never again tell us that a mule has no sense.

Are you for Ollie James, the big, brilliant, popular statesman who is attracting national attention? Then vote for Dr. J. H. Wade for the Legislature. Remember, it is the Legislature that elects United States Senators.

Argus of the Louisville Herald says the election for Governor will be very close. Against this "dope" we put our prediction that the Democratic majority in the first four Congressional districts will be McCreary's majority in the State.

A vote under the rooster is a vote for Henry Bosworth, the friend of the mountain people, and their nominee. It was the heavy vote of this section that gave him the nomination for Auditor.

The administration at Frankfort has not yet paid the jurymen who served at the January term, 1910, of the Lawrence Circuit Court. The man who bought the claim still holds it.

"The Democratic hosts, in this battle, will not lose their Democratic standards, but they will follow the stainless crest of McCreary to victory," McDermott.

20c per hundred sold at this office

Judge O'Rear spoke to the voters in the heart of the Cumberland Mountains yesterday. He pleaded with them to elect him so that he could redistrict the State.

Judge O'Rear has a habit of playing upon the credulity of his audiences, and he followed the habit in trying, successfully in a degree, to make the Cumberland mountain people believe that he, alone, could redistrict Kentucky. It is easy to imagine what a "good" redistricting bill O'Rear would make if he had the power. And he openly avows that if—Ah, woeful "if"!—if he is elected he will hold the legislature in continuous session until "it" passes one. But the Judge hardly knows where's east

Some people want to know about Mr. McCreary's personal life. We can say upon the assurance of those who have lived in his town that he is a high class Christian gentleman, an official in his church, a clean, upright man. He has withstood the temptations of high public positions. He never takes a drink of liquor, which is more than a lot of fellows can say who are running on prohibition platforms.

Judge O'Rear is nothing more nor less than a professional politician. In his own party he is rated as one of their shrewdest politicians—which is not altogether complimentary. The chief business of the professional politician is to fool the people, deal with both sides of almost every proposition, and to get votes in any way possible.

THE BUYING POWER OF $1.75.

A little money sometimes buys a good deal. For instance, take the subscription price of The Youth's Companion for a year $1.75. If all the good reading in the good reading in the 52 weekly issues of the paper were published in book form, according to its kind, it would make about thirty volumes of fiction, science, essays by famous writers, household management and economics, sports and pastimes for boys, natural history, anecdotes, humor, etc. The serial stories alone would fill several volumes. Among these is Ralph Paine's great story of the Boxer Rebellion in China, "The Cross and the Dragon." Another is by J. W. Schultz, who was adopted by the Blackfeet when a boy. It is called "The Quest for the Fish-Dog Skin." Another is a glorious girls' story by C. A. Stephens, called "Julia Sylvester." It is the story of a "Mercer" girl in the pioneer days of Oregon and Washington—and that is only part of the serials.

It will cost you nothing to send for the beautiful Announcement of The Companion for 1912, and we will send with it sample copies of the paper.

Do not forget that the new subscriber for 1912 receives a gift of The Companion's Calendar for 1912, lithographed in ten colors and gold, and all the issues for the remaining weeks of 1911 free from the time the subscription is received.

Only 1.75 now, but on January 1, 1912, the price will be advanced to $2.00. Address THE YOUTH'S COMPANION, 144 Berkeley St. Boston, Mass.

New subscriptions received at this Office. 11.

AS BAD AS THAT? DAVIESS SCHOOLS

Are Kentuckians Willing to Be "Tail Eanders?"

FINE CATTLE AND CHILDREN.

One Man to Care For Seven Jersey Heifers and One Teacher For Thirty-six, Sixty and Even a Hundred Pupils.

I had known for a long time that Kentucky's standing in matters educational was very low. I had known that she was in the grip of illiteracy, with all its attendant evils, but I had hardly expected to find such a large number of her rural population willing simply "to let things go." One day while chatting with a member of a county board of education in a rich county he happened to say:

"I tell you, I've been interested in education, mightily interested, for a long time. I've been on this board for mighty nigh ten year."

"I am delighted to hear you say that you are interested," I hastened to reply. "For you know Kentucky stands thirty-ninth in the list of the states when it comes to education. That's not very far from the end of the list. We need men like you to help us keep things moving."

The old gentleman stroked his grizzled beard thoughtfully, and I felt certain that I had made a vivid impression. A smile, a very small smile, wrinkled the corners of his eyes as he said quietly:

"I reckon you forgot one thing in this whole business—somebody's got to be 'tail eanders,' ain't they?"

I had a glimpse of rural Kentucky's attitude toward education.

Cattle and Children.

I was tired and discouraged after days of school inspection in Jefferson county, so I had decided to take a day off and visit the State Fair and see the sights.

"Blue ribbon?" I asked the man wearing a broad smile as he came down the main roadway.

"You bet!" he exclaimed. He caught sight of my camera and continued, "Don't you want to take a snapshot of my heifer?"

As he turned the splendid young animal into position for a photograph I had a chance to look her over carefully. I was certain she was of royal blood, for her horns looked like polished ebony, and her toe nails had been maneuvered that morning. When she was led to the barn near by I knew she was a royal princess, for the stable boy was waiting to throw her opera cloak over her and lead her to her stall. "How many heifers have you here?" I asked the stable boy when he had finished bedding her down.

"I have my hands full this time," he exclaimed. "I have seven to take care of. That's about the limit when you are doing the State Fair, all right."

I left the barn and went out into the roadway to think. I recalled vividly a school visited only the day before where a young man in Jefferson county was striving to handle thirty-six boys and girls by all eight grades and another school where a tired woman worried with sixty-five. I have seen 100 in one room.

The roadway was crowded with splendid, healthy boys and girls, brown with the kisses of a summer sun. They were laughing and chattering, full to overflowing with the zest of living. Watching them as they passed, I thought:

"Goodness! What is the matter with our old commonwealth when the stockmen all know that it takes one man to handle seven Jersey heifers in a state fair and they do not know that one teacher cannot possibly handle from thirty to seventy young animals and have them in condition to take prizes in the show ring of life? I felt that the children of Kentucky were not getting a fair, square deal."

AS BLEAK AS A CATTLE BARN

Schoolhouse For White Pupils a "Crying Shame" and Those For Colored Children Almost Beyond the Flight of Imagination.

Simply to show that these conditions, these same wretched school conditions, are common all over the state I went to Daviess county, in the western part of Kentucky. This is another of those old, rich communities that were luxurious and prosperous long before the civil war, and it is therefore able to build and equip comfortable schools for all of the children within its borders. Out in what is known as the—but I must not show pictures and tell names at the same time—where corn, tobacco, hay and wheat are grown in perfection, I discovered a poor little school building that was almost ready to go to pieces. Its front looked as if the children had needed extra fuel or kindling during the cold weather for their old battered drum stove. I am glad to be able to say that a new building is soon to replace this one, and it is high time, for the county superintendent said:

"It's a shame, a crying shame. I know it and feel it all the time; so do any number of other superintendents all over the state. But what can we do when the general public simply says over and over again, 'I went to a school like that one, got my education, all I ever had, and what was good enough for me is good enough for my own children, I reckon?'"

We went inside the old shack, and the county superintendent asked me to look at the rough walls, the knife-hewn desks of a pattern long out of date. Then he said:

"What kind of work can you get out of 'em when it's so much worse than they are used to at home? Mighty rough, isn't it? But that isn't the real tough part of it. I came out here during a sudden cold snap last winter to see how they could heat the school. You'll notice they have a piece of an old stove in the middle of the room and there is no protector about it to distribute the heat. I made the child who was sitting next to the stove move his seat, and I placed a thermometer where he had been sitting, busy with his lessons. THE MERCURY RACED UP TO 110 DEGREES. I took the same thermometer and hung it against the far wall of the wind-shaken house. IT DROPPED SUDDENLY TO 49 DEGREES. No child could do real mental work with this difference in temperature in the schoolroom, and there was grave danger for the children physically."

If the white schools in old Kentucky are bad the negro schools in many localities are almost beyond the flight of imagination. At a small village in this county of Daviess I ran across a very poor one, not any worse than others I had seen, but it was rather peculiar in its style of architecture. The windows were broken, the door unlocked and partly ajar, the front steps entirely gone, and the fence that had once separated the building from the roadway had disappeared except for some lonely pieces of posts. On pushing open the loose door I saw a bleak interior, with trash covering a badly warped floor. The room contained a rusty stove, overflowing ashes on the floor, and two rickety benches made of undressed lumber. The walls of the room were made of undressed siding nailed to studding and stripped. There had never been any inner wall of plaster or ceiling to keep out the cold. IT WAS AS BLEAK AS A CATTLE BARN. Is it any wonder that illiteracy stalks a menacing figure about the old state of "the dark and bloody ground?"

STORY OF A BASHFUL MAN AND A DEMURE MAIDEN

That Begins Back East and Ends Here—Generous Uncle Bill Gives Timely Advice to His Newly Married Niece.

In a remote hamlet back east lived a demure maiden and a bashful man, who had for some years been living with but one and the same object before them. Both were hopeless victims of "love microbes," that were doing the most effectual work under the direction of Cupid himself.

Finally Harry suddenly woke up one day and decided that prostration was the thief of time and bliss—and he immediately set about to bring matters to a focus. Very soon there was a wedding, and it wasn't much longer before their uncle Bill Taylor of Louisa wrote effusively of what he termed "grit" and proposed that if they would locate here, he would start them up in life. Very soon they began to bid loved ones adieu and were soon speeding in this direction.

When the train pulled in, generous Uncle Bill was at the depot to greet them and welcome a much elated couple, and after hearty congratulations, he conducted them straightway to the Hotel Brunswick. It was at breakfast the next morning while partaking of a tempting menu that was being politely served, that Uncle Bill first unfolded his plans to the appreciative newcomers obligating himself, first of all to build and furnish for them a modern home. "But in the meantime," he said, "you will find this hotel a pleasant and most agreeable place to live, since it is widely known as our best appointed and a most zealously managed hotel, and a favorite with the 'Knights of the Grip' under the good management of Mr. E. C. McClure, who personally looks after the welfare of those under its roof."

"Now, I am at sea," said Uncle Bill. It beats all how houses are built these days, considering the way they built them fifty years ago. Why, the modern houses of today have conveniences and comforts that one of my time never dreamed of. But I know who can help us out of this dilemma," said he, suddenly remembering Mr. Augustus Snyder as a man of original ideas and good taste and as being actively associated with the building interests here. Mr. Snyder very soon had the plans ready for the bride. It is a renaissance of Corinthian effect, symmetrical in appearance and commodious to a degree in its interior arrangement, and is just what the bride had longed for. The construction of which will at once be begun by him.

"Good lumber and good material go hand in hand with good workmanship when it comes to building a good house. Now about the lumber, millwork and sundry requisites coming under this heading, Augustus Snyder is our live and best exponent of lumber and building material here. He build the house and gave them a turnkey job."

Well it is up to me to furnish your new residence, remarked Uncle Bill, and it shall be furnished in just as good taste and as completely as your good judgment and taste will permit or dictate. "How grand," she exclaimed beaming with joy and expectancy. Uncle Bill then bade the young couple come with him to Snyder Hardware Co., the busy dealers of furniture, hardware and well informed house furnishers, where is handled everything that is smart, useful and dainty, needed to fit out the cottage or mansion on whatever scale desired. The trio were politely received at the big store where Hettie soon selected some exquisite furniture for her parlor, her living room and bedrooms as well as dining room and kitchen furniture, also tapestries, carpets, rugs, matings, etc. Her purchases, in fact, included all essential requisites. Hence the progressive Snyder Hardware Co. got the order to bottom.

Yes, I did promise you a nice watch and silver service, quoth Uncle Bill to the bride, as they were emerging from the furniture store. Then he directed them to Conroy's Store where he soon acquitted himself of the obligation, adding to the above a handsome clock and some exquisite articles of cut glass ware and Haviland China. Hettie evinced real pleasure and delight at the thought of so many useful, dainty and essential articles for her new home. "This jewelry house remarked Uncle Bill, as they again entered the street, always shows artistic and reasonable prices and has the distinction, with wide acquaintance, of being a reliable and well-appointed jewelry establishment. They never hold out false lights to make a sale either, and Mr. Rollings will engrave your monogram on the watch free of charge. He is an expert repairer and engraver."

"There is just one thing that is indispensable to furnishing my new home complete," modestly suggested Hettie. "What's that?" asked Uncle Bill promptly, who thought he had gotten everything. "A sewing machine, a Singer," said Hettie. Yes, that's a fact, but we'll fix that very soon with Mr. A.M. Wheeler, the alert and wide awake city and district manager for the Singer Company here and he is an agreeable and reliable fellow to deal with too. hear the Singer machine is used in over seventy-five per cent of the homes of the civilized world, it is a favorite with all intelligent house wives because of its simplicity and beauty and marvelous accomplishments in either plain or fancy sewing."

"Well the next question on the docket," ventured Uncle Bill to Hettie, "is to arrange about supplies for the Larder. It is the housewife sequel to maintaining the good graces of the men folks. Now for select table groceries and provisions and toothsome table delicacies and imported fruits and vegetables of every kind. I'll escort you to D. C. Spencer conducting a well appointed and completely stocked fancy grocery, where there is always shown a varied assortment of the most tempting good things to eat in town. His patrons come from every nook and corner hereabouts, and presumably for a reason. Perhaps it is because they appreciate the superior and correct ways that characterize the business dealings of D. C. Spencer our wide awake and well-versed grocer and purveyor to the larder, where there is a large and varied stock from which to select, at all times, said Uncle Bill."

"Well, I've named the grocer," said Uncle Bill, but equally important is the baker, for it is considered that bread is the staff of life, and it is not only a daily need but a luxury. If you get your bread cakes and pastries from J. B. Porter, manager of the Louisa Bakery. The many varieties of bread turned out at this bakery are ever wholesome, nutritious and deliciously sweet and eatable, and when you want cakes, pies or pastries that are delicate and dainty The Louisa Bakery can supply your wants promptly from the bakery or delivery wagons, products that are skillfully mixed and baked in a scrupulously clean and hygienic bakery. A line of eatables that original in taste, flavor and goodness, the secret of the success and popularity of this bakery whose aim has ever been to merit the confidence of the people."

"Next, I want you to recommend a good market," said Hettie to Uncle Bill. "One that I can depend upon all the time." "Well, for good meats, honest weights, and a nice all around place to trade," advised Uncle Bill smiling good naturedly. It's G. S. Wilson and Son's market and grocery you want to trade with. There you will find every day in the week the choicest and best fresh, cured meats that money, experience and vigilant effort can obtain. The best and fattest cattle, veals and lambs are bought on the hoof and are carefully slaughtered and dressed by skilled help with a view to meeting in every particular, the demands of the long list of exacting patrons G. S. Wilson and Son are equipped with ample cold storage facilities and maintain good delivery service. And considering all in all the basis upon which this market is catering to the public, it is admirable in every way, and fully merits the run of business accorded it, and the good name that so many give it," said Uncle Bill assuringly.

"Oh, yes, Uncle Bill you were to take us for a drive," said Hettie. "Yes, yes, so I was I will keep my promise, too," said Uncle Bill. Just then a pair of spirited steeds drawing a substantial and attractive trap, with fine trappings apparent, drew up in front of the home. "This rig came from Queen Bros. livery, our best equipped stables here," continued Uncle Bill. "It is truly a commodious and well ordered livery, sale and feed stable in every particular where are kept good vehicles for all uses, and good horses too, including some 'high steppers' let out at a reasonable price and it is this kind of business effort that has brought this popular barn under management of Queen Bros. into good standing with public, and made it deserving of good will and patronage of which it is the recipient, added Uncle Bill."

By the way, said Uncle Bill, what evident seriousness, since we have spent all this money in building and furnishing a new house, it would be a grave oversight for us to delay the matter of insurance. I think we had better go post haste and see F. T. D. Wallace, Jr., who will relieve us of all apprehension and suspense, who represents many of the best and staunchest fire, health and accident companies in the world, from which we may choose F. T. D. Wallace, Jr., the alert and wide awake underwriter, who yearly writes a large volume of business in the respective branches of insurance from which we may judge that every policy holder has been dealt with in a fair and liberal way in the adjustment of all honest claims."

Before the trio left the office Mr. Wallace wrote a policy covering the new house, as well as a policy for $3,000 on Harry's life in the Mutual Life Ins. Co. of New York.

By and By, remarked Uncle Bill as they reached the street, I must go over to the First National Bank and get another check book; come along with me and meet the cashier and the president as this is a good bank for you to open an account with, and it is proper for you to be introduced by some one well known to the bank. I mention the First National Bank because the management is agreeable to do business with and will extend to you at any time any courtesy compatible with sound banking rules. The bank has ample resources aggregating $300,000.00 and does a general banking business in the truest sense of the term rendering to the trade and to commercial interests as well as to its individual clientele, a most satisfactory banking service in every way. It stood the panic of '93 and is the oldest bank in town."

Hettie next asked Uncle Bill where the best millinery and ladies ready to wear store was. "You just mentioned it in time," rejoined Uncle Bill, "for this is the principal one right here," pointing to the millinery of Miss Jean McClure. "It is an inviting and pleasantly appointed millinery parlor and ladies ready to wear good store, where some new effects and latest creations appear simultaneously with Paris and metropolitan cities so zealously, does the accomplished milliner in charge guard the interests of her clientele. The large, varied and attractive lines of millinery were so tasty dainty and reasonable that Hettie soon succumbed to a nobby and exquisite hat. "Where is a good drug store?" asked the bride. "I must have some toothpowder and some cosmetics."

Right here, replied Uncle Bill. Just then the trio happened in front of A. M. Hughes' Pharmacy. This is a well appointed and most reliable drug store, and it is conducted along progressive lines, too," he said. "I get my prescriptions filled here, because I know the prescription case is in charge of a painstaking and efficient pharmacist who is ever prompt and accurate to all alike. A. M. Hughes' Pharmacy is always replete with a large and varied stock of drugs, medicines, chemicals and the manifold accessories to this branch, including fine box candle, in fact everything that is needed to meet the demands of the people. The house enjoys the confidence and esteem of a large acquaintanceship and it's here you will want to deal," said Uncle Bill.

"Next we will go to Luthers studio, and sit for pictures," suggested Uncle Bill, "for nothing recalls reminiscences of the honey moon in after years so vividly as a good photograph, and one taken at Luthers gallery will be a real likeness of you. He is not a 'camera snapper,' but a portrait photographer; as the specimens on exhibition at the pleasantly arranged gallery and reception room attest and that all photographers are alike, capable of achieving the same results, is no more true than pen, ink and paper make the same author," said Uncle Bill. This Luther aside from an ample and thoroughly equipped establishment, not only possesses the art of posing but also understands the worth of perception as well, while distinguishes him as a portrait artist, and makes for this gallery more than a local name." a feature that is individually Luthers said Uncle Bill. He can make any size photo from the same negative."

"Next, I must have some table and bed linens and portiers, rugs, wall paper, etc.," reminded Hettie. "That's a fact," rejoined Uncle Bill apologetically. I suspect you will want to replenish your wardrobe too, and your introduction to our town won't be complete until you have visited our best ordered and most popular dry goods establishment. "This is it now," said he, leading the way into W. D. Pierce's who handles everything for everybody in Millinery, Ladies Tailored Suits, Coats and Skirts, everything to wear namely, dry goods shoes clothing and furnishings as the salient lines. Here they found the store filled with purchasers, and among whom were some handsomely attired ladies. Hettie had no difficulty in finding just exactly what she wanted here. She said the lines in each of the respective departments were so varied and the daintiest effects, as well as the most staple goods. "And it is most satisfactory and a real pleasure to trade with W. D. Pierce, said Hettie as she left. They treat you nice and the prices are so reasonable, too."

"I see you make some pretensions to dress well yourself," said Uncle Bill to Harry; "Now for smart clothing and men's furnishing goods, I'll introduce you to W. L. Ferguson & Co., where I trade, it's a most reliable clothing and men's furnishing goods house, and it has the confidence of an enviable share of the discriminating class of trade too, men who know and appreciate good goods and correct patterns and fair dealing. The presentable and well stocked premises at once mirrors the business tact of W. L. Ferguson & Co., and bespeaks the volume of business that is tendered that establishment by men who know good values in correct dress. The house enjoys the confidence of a large acquaintanceship and it is where particular dressers will always want to deal," after they once get started there, concluded Uncle Bill.

The Charge of Insincerity Worries O'Rear.

Judge O'Rear is writhing under the charge of insincerity which has been made in every section of the State, and which has been confined by every word he has uttered since his nomination. He claims that Henry Watterson, Editor of the Courier-Journal, first gave currency to the accusation that he lacked sincerity. Whoever first called public attention to the Judge's moral delinquency in this respect, only put into words the thought that has been waiting for expression in the minds of thousands of those who have heard and read Judge O'Rear's speeches.

The indictment that can be drawn against the Republican nominee on this score cannot be demurred out of the Court of public opinion. Beginning with the pledges that he made to the people before his nomination, he has violated so many that it is difficult to enumerate them.

He claimed to be the foe of the "corrupt lobby," and was waiting eagerly for the time when he could put its members into uniform and drive them at the who's end from the halls of Legislation at Frankfort. In the face of this, he put the crown of approval upon Bradley, who was elected to the United States Senate by this identical "corrupt lobby," that he now promises to destroy.

He claims to be the one true friend of temperance; that the money of the Whiskey Trust has debauched the State; purchased weak Legislators and prevented the extension of the County Unit. At the first opportunity, he appoints the President of one of the biggest Whiskey concerns of the State, Chairman of his Finance Committee, personally applauding him for the collections he had made, and urging him to keep on with the good work. When he was caught red-handed in the company of this distiller, he dramatically served notice on him in a public speech that he must not accept money from his fellow whiskey men, but forgot to inform him that the amount contributed by himself must be returned.

Although before the Republican State Convention he announced that he favored the initiative and referendum, when the Republican platform was announced, there was no reference to these progressive policies.

Judge O'Rear promised the women of the State that he was in favor of woman's suffrage, and although he personally dictated the Republican platform, he could find no place in it for a plank approving woman's suffrage.

His platform heartily endorsed President Taft and all his policies, but when he was called to account for approving the vetoes of the President, he passed it off by saying that the platform endorsement was a meaningless bouquet.

Hiss platform approves every act of Governor Willson's extravagant, inefficient administration, but when the burden of it was transferred to O'Rear's shoulders, he stood from under it with the declaration that that plank too was a mere plesantry, and must not be taken seriously.

So it will be seen that Judge O'Rear only makes promises to break them. He is not true to himself, or to what few convictions he has on public questions. Wherever he happens to be, he takes the color of his surroundings, and supports any fad, folly or policy that promises to gain him a few votes.

Starting out a pure Judge clothed in ermine from head to toe, unsullied and unspotted, he has in a few short weeks been transformed into a time-serving politician whose insincerity is stamped upon his countenance, and colors every word that he utters.

WEST VIRGINIA NEIGHBORS.

NEWS FROM COUNTIES JUST ACROSS THE RIVER IN WEST VIRGINIA.

Mrs. Walter Sta'ey, of Whites Creek, died Sunday morning of consumption after lingering with this disease for some time. She is survived by a husband and three children.

Eleven sons of Anse Hatfield, former notorious feud leader, at the grave of their two brothers, Elias and Troy, who were killed in Fayette county a few days ago, announced they had reached the turning point in their lives, having heeded the pleadings of their father who was recently converted, and embraced religion, pledging themselves to lead better lives. They were baptized by Uncle Dyke Garrett, the veteran mountain preacher. Every surviving member of the famous family attended the funeral.

The nearing of the injunction proceedings instituted in Wyoming county to restrain the erection of county buildings at Pineville the county seat, has been postponed until November. In the meantime, an effort will be made to obtain a mandamus from the supreme court to compel the county court to call a special election for the purpose of voting on the proposition to remove the county seat to Mullens, the new town on the line of the Virginia Railway.

The six prisoners convicted at the October term of the Criminal Court were taken to Moundsville on Thursday afternoon by a guard from the state penitentiary. For the first time in several years the gentler sex was represented in the number.

Rena Moore, the colored woman who was sentenced for life after having been found guilty of murder in the first degree, and Virgie Chapman, of Matswan, were the women to go to the prison.

Tom Chaffin, convicted of voluntary manslaughter for the shooting of Mayor W. R. Hoskins and Chief Walter E. Musick, of Matewan, concluded not to take an appeal, or seek a new trial. While Chaffin was not satisfied with the verdict he concluded to serve the sentence rather than experience a long delay and incur the heavy expense of another trial.

For the second time Mingo county has sent up a prisoner for a second violation of the Johnson pistol law. A second conviction constitutes a felony and Pete Stevens was twice convicted and drew one year.

Lige Goodman, colored, of Sycamore, sentenced to serve three years for attempted rape and Cleve Harris, convicted of felonious assault on Charles Chapman, were the other two prisoners. Harris goes for one year—Mingo Republican.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness, caused by Catarrh, that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENEY &amp; Co., Toledo, O.

Reform in Carter County.

The constituted authorities of the two leading political parties in Carter county got together last spring and decided to take a united stand for fair elections. In furtherance of that decision the executive committees of the Democratic and Republican parties held a joint meeting and adopted a series of resolutions for future guidance in elections.

After setting forth in a preamble the fact that "a wave of reform in political affairs is rolling over the country in protest against corruption in elections" it was resolved:

That we as the legal committees of the parties as above set out cheerfully indorse the movement to give to our beloved country clean politics, and we pledge ourselves to aid in the prosecution, from this time on, of any infringements of the statutes against vote buying and selling, or the use of money in elections, for other than proper legitimate expenses, and are in favor of a law requiring candidates to file a statement of their campaign expenses under oath.

That we agree and bind ourselves to name a committee of three at each polling place in the county to report to the chairman of these committees any use of money in any future elections in our county, and we pledge the support and aid of these committees to the Prosecuting Attorney of this district in the prosecution of all such violations.

Should the party leaders live up to this agreement there will be no large amount of boodling in elections in Carter county. These party leaders are presumed to know to what extent corruption has been prevalent in past elections. The presumption is strong that it has prevailed to a considerable extent, else there would be no occasion for such action as was taken by the committees. Investigations in some of the Eastern Kentucky counties have shown that vote selling is rather common, not so general as Judge Blair found it in Adams county, Ohio, but more common than it ought to be in any county where civic ideals exist and where the majority of the people may be reasonably expected to possess some predilections in favor of old-fashioned honesty. The vote seller is a contemptible creature, but it must not be forgotten that there would be no vote sellers if there were no vote buyers—Courier Journal.

THE LONG, LONG AGO.

Concerning the recent unveiling of a monument to the memory of Gen. John H. Morgan at Lexington recently the Elizabethtown News said:

"Morgan's men made a more peaceable march into Lexington last week than they did fifty years ago."

The warlike march referred to occurred in early November, 1862. At that time the writer of these lines was serving as a surgeon in the Confederate army and was stationed at one of the two Confederate hospitals in Lexington. The Army had left Lexington, retreating southward, leaving several hundred sick and wounded in the hospitals. The town was in possession of the Federal forces, and the city, intensely Southern, was in mourning, none except the most hopeful ever expected to see the Bonnie Blue Flag in Lexington again. The town was garrisoned by the 4th Ohio cavalry, as well as the writer remembers, most of the troops being in camp on the Henry Clay place, on the Richmond pike about a mile and a half from the then city limits.

Just at daybreak one morning not long after the "Johnnies" had evacuated the town shots were heard out the Richmond pike, and in a few minutes a much frightened negro who was acting as servant to the surgeons rushed into the room where three or four of us were asleep, shouting "Gen'l Morgan has come back!" Some one threw a cavalry boot at him and he ran out. The firing continued, however, and we shortly heard rapid hoof-beats not far from the hospital, the old Transylvania University building, and hastily dressing we ran out to see what was the matter. John Morgan had come, sure enough. He had with characteristic suddenness and dash, left the main army, made a forced march and hit the enemy's camp in the rear. The Federal cavalry thinking Bragg's whole army was after them, precipitately fled. Morgan's men in hot pursuit, firing and yelling. Gen. Morgan seized everything at the camp, using what he could and destroying the remainder. He secured a large number of horses and a large amount of stores. He left the next day, never again to be seen there alive. The chivalry of the Blue Grass went with him, the beauty remained to mourn.

FAIRSBURG.

Our teachers' association convened promptly at 9:30 Saturday morning. The roll was called by Supt. O'Daniel and a few absentees noticed. The program was carried out with much interest and others present. Supt. O'Daniel said he would make and send the questions to the teachers for the fourth's examination.

For afternoon session the time was given to Carl Kirk, a teacher, of Martin county on the subject "Forty Lies and Other Lies."

The audience, after giving Mr. Kirk an attentive hearing, pronounced the address worthy of its title and adjourned.

NORA ROBERTS,

Notice to Teachers and Trustees.
I served notice on the Fiscal Court at its last session that the practice of using the school houses for holding elections would not be allowed by the County Board of Education any more, and the trustee or teacher who turns the school houses over for that purpose, does it at his own risk and under no circumstance will the teacher be allowed a day for dismissing schools for that purpose. Teachers who are voters are allowed time sufficient to vote, not to exceed four hours.

I will send uniform questions to all teachers in the county for holding their fourth month's examination, November 10, 1911. Call at your postoffice about Thursday, November 9th, for them.

JAY O'DANIEL, Supt.
